Design for Europe is a website and series of workshops and events to support innovation across Europe. It will share knowledge and tools that will help you realise the value of design. You are invited to join a growing community using design to change the way businesses, public services and policy-making work for the better. This programme will be delivered over the next three years (starting in 2014) to help implement the European Commission's 'Action Plan for Design-Driven Innovation'.
